Turn In Early: There's no denying that this quilt is HUGE. To keep the quilting from feeling too daunting, try quilting an all-over design on a larger scale. I especially love elongated swirls, because there is so much echoing. Using a light yellow thread will keep the quilting from standing out too much on any of the colors.

Quilting Diagrams

Up All Night: As much as I love all-over designs, I can easily get bored quilting them. One workaround that I constantly use is to add some “custom” quilting in just some of the blocks, such as the blocks in the corner of the quilt or in the center. Or perhaps the blocks where the points actually come together perfectly, which can be rare when I am piecing.
